If you use a Object Oriented programming language instead of procedural programming language in a large software project approach it will result in less lines of code (LOC)

Definitely

51.4%

48.6%

Not necesseraily